THE ALL-SINGING, ALL-DANCING Oxford cover is the second most expensive product in the test, but the highest scorer. It has the same features as the Oxford Rainex, but with higher quality materials, a rear visibility panel for the number plate, and pockets to keep the lock and chain off the ground. While the Stormex is a little cumbersome to get on and into place, at least at first – which hits its 'ease of use' score – it offers serious protection against the elements. The material proved water, abrasion and heat resistant, and should last a good few years.

Scores

Water resistance	5
Heat resistance	5
Abrasion resistance	5
Ease of use	3
TOTAL	18/20

Very good details and very good overall

Material gave perfect scores in three tests
